Te ao Māori is the Māori world view that acknowledges the interconnectedness and interrelationships of all living and non-living things.
Te Tiriti o Waitangi is the historic agreement between the British Crown and Māori in New Zealand to establish a common set of laws or agreements for the British settlers and Māori people to live together. It has two texts: one in English and one in te reo Māori.
Tikanga is a Māori concept that refers to the correct way of doing things within Māori society. It is based on Māori knowledge, values and practices and encompasses various aspects of culture, customs, las, ritual and etiquette.
Youth development refers to the biological, social, emotional, and cognitive growth of children and adolescents, along with the support and services that communities offer to meet their needs and nurture their overall development.
Youth Work practice is a mana centric relationship between a youth worker and a young person, where taiohi actively participate, discover their power, and choose to engage for as long as agreed; and that supports their holistic, positive development as taiohi that contribute to themselves, their whānau, community and world.
